Immigrant Health Equity: One Year Later

Last year, we kicked off our first meeting of the year with a focus on the changes in immigration policies and impact on the community. The ACLU provided some legal grounding, and community organizations shared current feeling on the ground, and public health departments talked about their actions to protect immigrant clients.

We'd like to bring this issue focus back around by reviewing findings in a new report from the Kaiser Family Foundation on Immigrant Families in America. As well as receiving updates from BARHII's regional brief and updates on BARHII's Trauma workgroup.

Speaker:

- Samantha Artiga, Director of the Disparities Policy Project at the Kaiser Family Foundation and Associate Director for the Foundation's Program on Medicaid and the Uninsured.

Objectives:

- Focus on the changes in immigration policies and impact on the community.
- Public health departments discuss actions that have been put in place to protect immigrant clients.
- Brainstorm next steps for policy and programs to support immigrant clients
